

SUMMERTIME FUN!

As we continue through week 18 of shelter-in-place, we know that this summer does not look like what many of us had pictured. While previous summers have been filled with festive gatherings and trips to new places, 2020 has required us to find entertainment and adventures closer to home.

Your LBC has continued to reimagine how we can fulfill our mission as well as share some much-needed summertime fun with you! We launched our first-ever Carpool Cinemas series in July and have more amazing films coming through August 29. We also premiered our first-ever virtual concert special featuring Santa Rosa native country artist Pete Stringfellow, which was recorded on the LBC stage. We continue to offer our virtual programs: Let's Be Creative, Luther Locals, Drop the Mic, and Feeding Our Frontline providing you with new content every week.

With each passing month, we are newly reminded of how our experiences during this challenging time are different than before, but we can assure you that LBC's commitment to finding creative ways for our community to engage in the arts will remain the same.

OUTDOOR MOVIE MAGIC!

What better way to enjoy summer nights than with Carpool Cinemas! We have your favorite movies coming to the big screen, so gather up your family and join us every Wednesday and Saturday through August 29th for an unforgettable evening. Click on the Carpool Cinemas image for more information.

BUSINESS PARTNER SPOTLIGHT

For many years, the SMT team has supported LBC as a corporate alliance partner, and through Board leadership. Lisa Ann Hilario is in her third year as a member of the Board of Directors. Previously DJ Drennan served on the Board for five years and Kevin McCullough served for nine years. SMT is also a strong supporter of numerous other non-profit organizations, including the Redwood Empire Food Bank, Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital Foundation, Schulz Museum, Roseland University Prep, Petaluma Arts Center, California Craft Brewers Association, Listening for a Change, Sebastopol Little League, and Sonoma County Legal Aid. In addition to serving on boards, the SMT team volunteers time with the local courts to improve access to justice for all in Sonoma County.

As each of us has adapted, and continues to adapt, to helping limit the spread of COVID-19, the attorneys and staff at Spaulding McCullough & Tansil LLP \(SMT\) have remained available to assist with resolving legal issues. As we continue to care for each other, SMT is proud to have an opportunity to give back to the community.

The law is a complex and diverse profession. As has been the case for more than 25 years, the attorneys of SMT are available to help in many subject areas including business transactions, civil litigation, trusts and estates, mergers & acquisitions, employment, equity compensation, financing, intellectual property, real estate and ADR. Their practices serve the diverse industries of Sonoma County including agriculture, wine, beer & spirits, software and technology, health care, manufacturing, hospitality, government, non-profits, and real estate.

SMT attorneys are firmly committed to providing quality service in an efficient manner. Whether representing family members in a business succession process, employers wrestling with complex labor regulations, or parties in the challenges of a lawsuit, they pride themselves on prompt, personal attention. Their success is reflected in repeat and referral business from long-standing clients as well as the numerous accolades the firm has received.

Recent acknowledgements include a Gold Medal as “Best Law Firm” by North Bay Biz readers and Best Law Firm in the “Best of” awards in the Bohemian. SMT has also been designated a “Best Place to Work” by the North Bay Business Journal.

LBC is proud to have the support of Spaulding McCullough & Tansil LLP.

Obsidian Son

There was a time when Sean Patrick Garvey, who performs under the band name Obsidian Son, put his guitar down and started working on making a living. The son of a grape grower and winemaker, Sean grew up working on vineyards in a farming community in Northern California. Although the feverish rhythm of agriculture was in his blood, it was songwriting that consumed him. With a four-track tape machine in tow, he moved between New York City and San Francisco writing and performing alongside respected artists such as Emmylou Harris, Billy Bragg, Langhorne Slim, Chuck Prophet, and Kevin Gordon. Album “Obsidian Son” is a collection of stories inspired by years living in a rural farming community. It represents both sides of the street, the neon hustle of a pay day night and a summer wind through Spanish moss. “Growing up I would put a record on and lay on the floor for hours, just getting lost. It was a ritual” relates Garvey. “My hope is this record allows people to unplug and find something to connect to. If it happens to give someone the chills, then it’s working.”
